FOCUS ON

emotional intelligence

The World Economic Forum has listed emotional intelligence as one of the top skills required for the 21st Century. It's no longer something that's "nice to have", rather it's a vital skill to support personal and professional success as we enter the Fourth Industrial Revolution, which will place automation and artificial intelligence at its centre.

The learnable, measurable, scientifically-grounded skills of emotional intelligence are transformational... but how do you get started? Six Seconds research-based training and coaching provides the answer and puts theory into practice.

Emotional Intelligence means "being smart with emotions"

PROGRAM

EQ Leadership Certification

This is the only course of its kind – ideal for anyone who wants to leverage emotional intelligence (EQ) in their personal and professional life.

The program is based on the latest neuroscience and provides participants with a model and language to unlock capacity to practice EQ, starting with themselves.

Participants will clarify personal goals and understand how EQ will support them to step forward. They'll learn a model exploring the dynamic interaction between thoughts, feelings and actions (TFA) and understand how to use this as a model to practice EQ.

During the program they'll be immersed in the Six Seconds' unique approach to create value with EQ and walk away ready to put learning into action.

Participants receive their personal Six Seconds UEQ profile & Survey of Emotional Intelligence (SEI) Leadership Report.
